Description

All LIGHTWIN® fiber optic patch cable adapters are manufactured using special processing methods to create a high-quality product.
These adapters are suitable for all fiber optic applications in a wide range of telecommunications environments. Typical applications include patch panels in data centers, server or network cabinets, as well as FTTH (Fiber to the Home).
By using special alignment sleeves for LIGHTWIN® multimode adapters and specially selected alignment sleeves with the tightest tolerances for LIGHTWIN® singlemode adapters, the highest fitting accuracy is achieved.
Further advantages of LIGHTWIN® patch cable adapters:
· Lifetime warranty (LIGHTWIN® Lifetime Warranty)
· 100% tested
· Use of special alignment sleeves with the tightest tolerances
· All connector combinations available at short notice on request
General information about fiber optic adapters: A fiber optic adapter provides a detachable connection between two fiber optic patch cables. While a conventional signal in a copper cable can be affected by electrical interference, fiber optic cables transmit using light. They therefore cannot be affected from the outside by electromagnetic interference, nor does a fiber optic cable affect other cables or signals, because it emits no electromagnetic radiation. The low attenuation of optical cables also allows distances of well over 100 km to be bri
